

Results Beyond the Edge of Technology

Madison Sterns services establish the baseline to successfully integrate People, Process and Technology seamlessly to provide innovative, comprehensive business solutions.

With the operational performance demands of the current marketplace and evolving global markets. You need increased productivity from your employees, increased efficiencies in your processes, and greater return on each investment. You need flexibility in the organizational and technology infrastructure in place to control the demands of today and a comprehensive strategy to leverage your human capital and business technology to achieve a competitive advantage.

Defining strategies which mirror business objectives and implementing processes and technology solutions is what we provide at Madison Sterns. We are a solution provider for the Mid-Size and Global marketplace.

Madison Sterns Strategy focuses on the business challenges and obstacles associated with growth, globalization and the integration of technology assets. Understanding a company's capability and constraints enables our team of professionals to develop solutions that address current market demands and align with the long-term business strategy.

Madison Sterns Professional Services deliver comprehensive and global enterprise solutions from business technology strategy to enterprise systems integration across a broad spectrum of leading technologies.

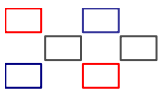

Madison Sterns Data Management and Governance teams provide industry and technology centric solutions with leading technologies and methodologies to establish data management and governance process, procedure and organizations to achieve and maintain harmonized, consolidated and

Madison Sterns Business Technology Strategy

In order to achieve an objective, organizations must define the goal and establish an achievable strategy in which to arrive at the objective. At Madison Sterns, we assist businesses in defining, planning and executing to business objectives and strategic goals. Our tailored approach to collaborating with stakeholders, business partners and customers integrates the core business technology assets while correlating the Business short and long term objectives.

As companies grow, so do market demands — Geographic, Cultural, Competition — and the requirements to achieve and maintain market position change constantly. Our team of experienced and skilled professionals work with the key stakeholders and leaders within your organization and industry to define the approach and address the demands of today's market needs as well as infrastructure needs to grow with the business.

While many organizations address increased demand with additional resources and technology spending resulting in minimal return, we leverage the existing organizational model in conjunction with current and new business technology solutions to leverage and maximize the existing investments across the organization to achieve results.

Madison Sterns Professional Services

Madison Sterns Professional Services enable the alignment of an organizations technology with the vision and objective of the business strategy. We have in depth knowledge and skilled professionals specific to managing, implementing and optimizing business operations and processes coupled with ERP solutions. Our teams are well versed and experienced with mid-market and global ERP and Business Intelligence Platforms—SAP, Oracle, NDS and Microsoft. Beyond packaged solutions, Madison Sterns also provides customized solutions specific to internally developed applications enabling further integration and enhanced functionality based upon business requirements. Our application development team provides solutions for .Net, Java, C++, C#, Content Management and Internet Technologies to support commerce, intra/extranet application integration.

Madison Sterns Data Management Services

One of the most critical and certain challenges in any organization is establishing, managing and maintaining application data. Regardless, if it is Master, Transactional, or Historical data from a single source or shared amongst a variety of legacy and data warehousing solutions, the value of good data is paramount to effectively using decision support tools and operating business processes efficiently. Madison Sterns Data Management Team provides data profiling, cleansing, harmonization/consolidation and migration solutions for organizations across the world. We utilize a structured approach and methodology as well as leverage leading industry tools to profile and cleanse data accompanied with a platform for on-going governance, process control and data organization management.

Madison Sterns Infrastructure Services

In conjunction with our strategic partnerships with hardware and technical infrastructure providers, Madison Sterns provides comprehensive installation services to compliment application and package software products.

For Address and e-mail contact information, please visit us at www.madisonsterns.com

Location

Phone

Fax

Phoenix

480.505.1101

480.505.1102